THE SISTERS OF CAIRO.

A Good Time can be had in the Beautiful Orient at the West-Indian Exposition.

There are many great exhibits at the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian Exposition, there are many marvelous things. There are sights, sounds and sensations to suit every shade of human taste; profound things for the profound, artistic things for the artistic, sentimental things for the sentimental and morals a plenty for the moralists. But if one is looking simply for a good time, for pure unadulterated fun, it can be had in the Beautiful Orient and in big bunches.

At a step one finds one's self in the midst of a maze of narrow, winding streets flanked with quaint looking market stalls, stately mosques, solemn temples and graceful minarets, all clothed in the gorgeous colors so dear to the Eastern heart.

On every side arises a babel of strange sounds, the din of drums, the falsetto squeak of queer reed instruments, the droneing chant of mosque players, the hoarse shouts of camel drivers, the shrill cries of hawkers vending their wares, the grunting of camels, the braying of diminutive donkeys, the trumpeting of elephants; a medley of wild, weird music and the jargon of many tongues.

For here is a motley and polyglot throng of many peoples and of myriad languages. The turbaned Turk strides abreast of the skirted Greek; the white shrouded Algerian rubs elbows with the swarthy sheik from the plains of Araby; the natty and bejeweled Persian doffs his fez to the ebony skinned belle of Ethiopia, while the stranger is jostled by a motley crew of Armenians, Albanians, Kurds, Romanians, Servians, Bulgarians, Nubians, Cingalese, Arabians, Soudans, Abyssinians and a host of others, all dressed in their national costumes and pursuing their accustomed occupations with all the noise and confusion of the land of Allah, Mahomet and Bud-dah. A hustling busting, jostling throng arrayed in all the picturesque splendor of the Far East.

Muleteers and musicians, camel drivers and contortionists, swordsmen and singing girls, dancers and dervishes, tumblers and tradesmen, jugglers and juggling, houris and hawkers, acrobats and artisans, a shouting, singing, rollicking and good natured crowd as one may wish to see.

And how the sight-seeing and fun-loving American crowds enjoy it! Here indeed is the home of mirth and the street of folly. Here decorum is laid aside, dignity thrown to the winds.

Yonder go a blushing bride and a dashing groom spending a brief moment of their honeymoon on the swaying, lurching back of a camel; there a staid and steady old bursar is being jolted along the Streets of Cairo on an equally sagacious donkey; here a motherly looking matron is seen chambering on to the broad back of a kneeling elephant; old and young of both sexes and all stations catch the infection of the moment and join in the jollity of the occasion. Busy politicians forget the plots and plans of party and faction to jounce up and down on the vertebrae of an Algerian ass; overworked business men forget their cares in a camel ride and laugh themselves red and reckless as they roll and pitch on the hurricane deck of this ambling "ship of the desert," thoughtless students forsake their books and revel in the delights of the Oriental theatre and grizzled veterans share with roystering youths their admiration of the grace and beauty of the dancing girls or the gruesome thrills evoked by the grotesque torture dance.

AFTER BARTOW WARREN.

Gov McSweeney Offers Reward of $1,000 for His Capture

Governor McSweeney has issued a proclamation, recalling the murder at Branchville of Tom Watson by Bartow Warren, and offering a reward of $1,000 for his capture. Back of this act lies the story and career of a desperate and vengeful man. Born in the vicinity of his latest crime and respectably connected, Warren followed the bent of a reckless and adventurous disposition, enlisted in the army during the war with Spain, but deserted and went to the far west.

Drifting back to Branchville without money and in doubtful repute, he broached to two of his acquaintances (Watson and Connor) a plan to hold up and rob a Southern railway train. They refused to join him, but he boarded the train and seated himself on the baggage car platform, from where, masked and with revolver in hand, he forced entrance into the express car, secured what little money the expressman had and decamped in the darkness.

He was speedily apprehended and several months later was arraigned for his crime. The trial brought out such evidence of guilt that, despite strenuous efforts made to obtain his acquittal, the jury was unable to agree.

One of the principal witnesses against him was Watson. Both men returned to Branchville, and one evening while Watson was seated on the steps of one of the village stores Watson without warning shot him to death.

Since the commission of that cold-blooded deed he has disappeared from this part of the country. But justice never sleeps, and Gov. McSweeney's proclamation is a reminder of that determination which all good people will accept as evidence that under his administration the law will and shall be vindicated and human life protected to the utmost power of the State.

It is a notable coincidence that on the same railroad another train was attacked by several men in the same locality last week and robbed of a small amount of money. The railroad and express companies have, in conjunction with the State, offered a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the thieves. So far no clue to their identity has been obtained. Nevertheless the State officers and officials of the railway and express companies may be depended on to push the affair to a finish.

Speaking to a representative of The News and Courier, an express official remarked yesterday: "The policy of the Southern Express company in such cases is well known. It will spare no effort, nor count expense, in bringing those highwaymen to justice. As a matter of fact they only got about twelve dollars out of the raid. Nevertheless, a sense of obligation to our patrons and a sentiment of public duty for the maintenance of law and order, as well as for self protection, make it imperative for us to use every resource of the company to punish those who dare predate upon it."

"You may say that we have no information to give out concerning present progress in the case, but that notwithstanding the trivial loss sustained, relentless pursuit and retribution will follow this gang until they have expiated their crime and are put out of business."

STATE S. S. CONVENTION

South Carolina Association Meets at Greenwood this Year.

The following official announcement has been made, dated at Newberry:

To Pastors and Superintendents.

The South Carolina Sunday School Association will be convened in session in Greenwood, S. C., March 25-27. A very interesting convention is promised. In addition to prominent and forceful speakers and Sunday school workers from our State, we will have with us the representative of the international executive committee, Mr. Class D. Meigs of Indianapolis, Ind., one of the foremost Sunday school workers of the great west. Mr. Meigs will discuss topics of great interest to the Sunday schools. At this forthcoming convention delegates will be elected to the 10th International convention to be held in New York, Col., next June. We expect to the Christian people of our beloved Commonwealth who are specially interested in this great cause to identify themselves with this organized movement to the end that the convention may be an assured success.

Let pastors and superintendents take up this matter at once, with their teachers, presenting the great need of larger equipment and the benefits to be derived by attendance upon all the sessions of the convention.

The railroads will extend the usual courtesy of reduced rates. The good people of Greenwood will entertain all delegates. For programmes address Wm. E. Pelham, chairman, executive committee.

The county papers are asked to copy this notice.

POSTMASTER OF GREENVILLE

Mr. Richardson cannot be entreated because the Greenville News demanded $1000.

[News and Courier]

Washington, February 6.—Jeff Richardson, of the Greenville News, who was recently appointed post master at Greenville was here to ascertain who is blocking his confirmation. He did not have to go far to find out that he is stoutly opposed by Senator Tillman. Senators Tillman and McLaurin are divided on the subject and the President has had both of the South Carolina Senators at the White House recently, with the hope that a compromise of some kind might be reached which would result in the confirmation of Mr. Richardson.

It is understood that Senator Tillman refuses to withdraw his opposition on the ground that Richardson has gone out of his way to heap personal abuse upon him through the
